Losses From Severe Cold to Be Heavy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe cold knifed deep into the South again early today, dealing hard-hitting citrus and vegetable growers in Texas and Florida another economic blow.

Losses from the record-breaking cold, which has held an icy grip on the Deep South since Tuesday, total millions of dollars. Citrus crop damage in the lower Rio Grande Valley alone has been placed at $19 million.

The storm, the most severe of the winter and one of the worst in many years, has been blamed for more than 150 deaths across the nation.

Although temperatures were less severe Friday in an area stretching from Arizona to the mid-Atlantic Coast, the Weather Bureau warned of a new storm brewing in the Rockies. It posted heavy snow warnings for Nebraska and Kansas and said the storm would sweep across the Central Plains toward the northern Great Lakes over the weekend.

The continued severe cold in the South probably won't inflict much additional damage on fruit and vegetable crops because they were ruined in much of the area by the first night of subfreezing temperatures. But it would be

Asks Advice on Fair Appointments

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Governor Orval E. Faubus said today he has asked Winthrop Rockefeller and L. C. Dial to recommend persons for appointment of a world's fair commission.

Rockefeller, chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, and Dial, head of the Parks and Publicity Commission, are principal pushers of a proposal that Arkansas set up an exhibit at the 1964-65 World's Fair in New York.

A committee of business and civic leaders from over the state recommended after a meeting Thursday that Faubus appoint the commission to start machinery toward planning the exhibit and raising funds for it.

Rockefeller estimated overall cost of the project at $1.25 million. He said the money would come from state funds, donations and lease of exhibit space in the Arkansas fair building.

Faubus said today he did not want to speculate about the commission's chances of raising funds for the exhibit.

Faubus said he wanted Rockefeller and Dial to draw up a list of potential commissioners so he would have something with which to work.

"We need men on this commission with ability, means and time," Faubus said. "It will take a lot of work and time and there is no appropriation for this commission."

Faubus said he would have no objection if the AIDC and the Parks Commission provide personnel for the new commission.

"All of these are promotional agencies and I see nothing improper in them helping one another," Faubus said.

Final Rites for Evans Twins Sunday

Funeral services for Sherry Kay and Jerry Ray Evans, four-month-old infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Evans, who died from a toxic substance poisoning at their home early Friday, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Oakcrest Funeral Service Chapel by the Rev. Gordon Renshaw and the Rev. Eugene Hughes. Burial will be at Sardis Cemetery near Nashville.

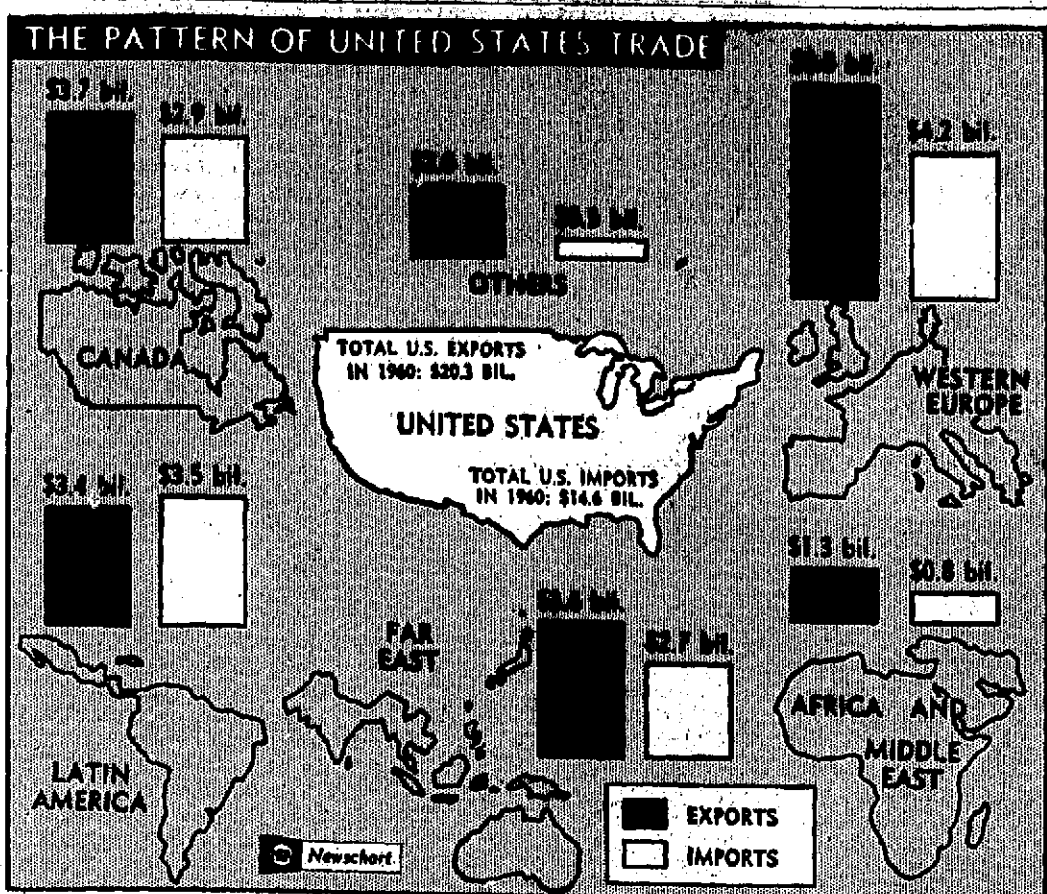

Besides their parents they are survived by two brothers, Edward and Roy Evans Jr. and a sister, Thelma Evans, and grandparents Mrs. Sarah Evans of Akron, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lamb of Hope.

TRADE, TARIFFS AND TENSION—Congress is preparing for a tug of war as the Reciprocal Trade Program, begun in 1934, comes up for its 11th renewal. The act enables the president to make mutual tariff-lowering agreements with other countries. President Kennedy is expected to ask for broader tariff-cutting powers in order to bargain with Europe's Common Market, whose members are gradually abolishing all tariffs among themselves. Protectionists, however, fear the effect on domestic industries in the face of heavy competition from foreign imports. Newschart shows the record of U.S. foreign trade in 1960, which recorded a favorable imports vs. exports balance of nearly $6 billion.

Committees Key to JFK Programs

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The success or failure of much of President Kennedy's 1962 legislative program rests largely in the hands of two House committees headed by conservative Southern Democrats.

If these two groups, the rules committee and the ways and means committee, fail to act, the House itself may never get a chance to vote on the proposals Kennedy submitted to Congress Thursday in his State of the Union Message.

Within the past week, the President has conferred privately and separately at the White House with both chairmen, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, head of the ways and means committee and Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia, top man on the rules committee.

Neither would comment on their conversations but it is a safe assumption Kennedy did not summon them merely to pass the time of day.

Smith's committee has no original jurisdiction over legislation. But it can, and often does, bottle up bills approved by other committees. It is in effect a traffic cop, controlling the flow of legislation from legislative committees to the House floor. It is composed of 10 Democrats and five Republicans but the real lineup usually is eight liberals and seven conservatives.

It was the rules committee which last year refused to let the House vote on the Senate-passed Kennedy-backed general school aid bill.

The ways and means committee has initial jurisdiction over bills dealing with taxes, Social Security and tariffs, among other things. It is composed of 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans, with the over-all majority on the conservative side.

Last year, the committee declined to approve the President's request for a medical care bill under the Social Security system, a request he renewed Thursday.

The most support the measure received in several committee ballots was nine favorable votes.

Mills opposed the health insurance bill last year, and Smith led the fight against the school bill. There is no reason to believe that either man has changed his position.

Husband, Wife Can Serve

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The attorney general's office ruled today that it is legal for a husband and wife to serve with the same city council—one as recorder and the other as alderman.

The opinion went to Joseph C. Miraz, a justice of the peace at Bull Shoals who said such a situation exists on the council there.

The couple was not identified.

In another opinion, Dale L. Bumpers, a Charleston attorney, was advised that a proposal for a city to release some of its corporate territory back to the county cannot be placed on the ballot for the regular municipal election, but it can be voted on by another ballot in the same election.

Big Plantations State Sold

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP)—Two big Chicot County, Ark., plantations have been sold for a total of $1,305,000, it was reported Thursday.

Mrs. Evelyn W. Thudium sold Yellow Bayou, a 4,000-acre plantation, to Wayne B. Claughter and James A. Dooley of Chicago for $880,000.

R. H. Sheffield and his son, R. H. Sheffield Jr., sold the 1,700-acre Bellevue Plantation to J. M. Wall of Blytheville, Ark., for $423,000.

The two plantations adjoin. Both are on the Mississippi River and both have frontage on state Highway 144.

Care of Idle Workers Is Necessary

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leading industrialists and labor union leaders have jointly advised President Kennedy that, while modernizing American industry must continue, the government and employers must take care of workers made idle.

The report—the first one filed by Kennedy's 21-man Labor-Management Advisory Committee—called for a "course of action which will encourage essential progress in the form of automation and technological change, while meeting at the same time the social consequences such change creates."

The recommendations, representing a remarkable meeting of the minds in a normally contentious group, were received by Kennedy at the White House Thursday in an hour-long conference with his advisers.

Praising the report, Kennedy said: "We must take advantage of every opportunity for technological development. But we cannot disregard the human values involved. Your recommendations properly recognize both sides of this problem."

The automation report, originally drafted by President Clark Kerr of the University of California, one of the public members of the group, called for a whole series of measures by the government and employers to ease the plight of workers and their families hard hit by automation.

Nobody quarreled with the need for making industry steadily more efficient; instead it was urged that this process continue in order to improve economic growth and the U.S. position in world markets.

Many of the methods suggested to ease the human burden of automation quite closely resembled proposals Kennedy is urging on the newly convened Congress—such as power to reduce taxes in times of high unemployment, to train displaced workers in new skills, and to pay costs of idled workers to relocate into other areas.

The advisers include some of the most prominent figures in management, labor, economics and government—such as auto maker Henry Ford II, shipping magnate John M. Franklin and textile manufacturer J. Spencer Love, along with union leaders George Meany and Walter Reuther.

Army Chiefs Likely to Be Reorganized

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another reorganization of the Army's command and administrative structure is on the way and, as usual, a row is brewing.

This will be the latest of a series of major and minor reshuffles since the end of World War II.

Under the plan, reported to have received the approval of President Kennedy, some posts, including those at the head of several technical services, would be abolished. The importance of some others would be lessened.

The reorganization plan for the Army apparently relates directly to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's high interest in re-vamping management of the whole Pentagon establishment.

The program will go to Congress. There committees will task questions of witnesses. The question will provide opportunity for those opposed to the program to speak up.

The Army Navy Air Force Journal said today that Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff, had called in some dissatisfied officers and told them they had had their opportunity to register objections while the plan was being formulated and that now they are expected to support it.

But, said the Journal, one of those expected to express his views if called before Capitol Hill committees is Lt. Gen. John H. Himmels, chief of the abolished office.

Along with the ordinance chief's office, the program would end the office of chief of Chemical Corps and downgrade other technical branch chiefs except the chief of Army Engineers and the Army surgeon general.

The Defense Department and Army officials may have decided to leave the office of chief of Army Engineers untouched for a certain reason: the chief of Army Engineers runs rivers and harbors and other nonmilitary construction, a matter of high interest in congressional circles.

Doctor Convicted of Manslaughter

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Dr. Albert L. Weiner, osteopath, today was sentenced to two to four years in prison and fined $12,000 on charges of involuntary manslaughter growing out of the deaths of 12 of his patients from serum hepatitis. He was convicted by a jury Dec. 19.

Zorro Loves to Sleep in Tree

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Zorro loves to sleep in a tree. The only trouble is, he's not a cat or bird. He's a 2-year-old mongrel dog.

Zorro's owner, Amy Mary Palcveda, said the dog started favoring his six-foot perch on a limb of a backyard tree about a year ago.

"He spends much of the day perched in the tree—it gives him a vantage point to keep an eye on the yard," she said.

Liberals Want a Steering Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a House Democratic liberal group say they expect to get what they wanted all along: a steering committee to "advise and consult" on party legislative plans.

And they say they have reached a private understanding with Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to get the machinery moving in a week or 10 days.

Publicly, at his first news conference Friday as speaker, McCormack was only lukewarm to the idea.

"I would have no objection if the Democratic caucus decides to do it," he said.

But he added he would take no active part in setting up such a steering committee.

McCormack previously had said "a policy committee is out."

But Rep. Chet Holifield of California, a leading proponent of the steering committee, said the group never had sought power to dictate policy to the House's new Democratic leaders or supplant the powerful and often conservative Rules Committee, which governs the flow of legislation to the House floor. He made a sharp distinction between a "steering committee" and a "policy committee."

Other sources said that what the liberal group wanted all along was a committee that would be democratically elected by the caucus with representatives of each geographical region.

Have a function of advising and consulting with McCormack's leadership on legislative business. Derive its power from the action of the party caucus.

They said McCormack in private meetings had agreed to this format and they doubted it will be necessary to bring the matter before the caucus by petition. But they said they had the required 50 signatures if needed.

Another committee backer, Rep. Henry Reuss, of Wisconsin, said he expected the steering committee would be "effective and fruitful."

Holifield described the House Rules Committee as "a super-committee passing on the merits of legislation reported favorably by other committees" having jurisdiction.

He conceded his opinion was not shared by everyone but said that "no intervening committee (such as the Rules Committee) has a moral right to withhold bill reported favorably by a legislative committee of jurisdiction."

However, Holifield said that argument has nothing to do with the kind of steering committee the group wants.

Defense Chief Plans Trip to Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will go to Hawaii this weekend for another conference on the South Viet Nam situation and will make several trips every month for several months.

This disclosure today by a Defense Department spokesman points up the high priority which McNamara gives to the U.S. military aid program there.

The defense chief wants to be certain that "no stone is left unturned" in the all-out effort to assist South Viet Nam, the spokesman said.

McNamara will leave Washington Sunday, confer at Pearl Harbor on Monday, and be back at his desk Tuesday.

At Pearl Harbor, he will discuss the situation with Adm. Harry D. Pelt, commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific, and other commanders there.

Among those going with McNamara will be Frederick E. Nolting Jr., U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, who is returning to his post.

Nolting spent 40 minutes with President Kennedy at the White House today.

He had a later date with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Nolting brought Kennedy up to date on the situation. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and W. Averell Harriman, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, sat in on the conference.

Joining McNamara and Nolting on the trip to Hawaii will be Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and almost a dozen other military officers.

Old Ben Franklin Was the First 'Do It Yourself' Man—Nobody Could Do It Better

By MARY ANITIA LASETER

With the unusual siege of ice and snow we have experienced the past few days, many people in our area have found themselves using a do-it-yourself method to try to solve some of their problems. They haven't always worked, but our ingenuity has been tested, at least.

If we had had the mind of Ben Franklin, or maybe his help, things might have had an easier solution. That's because this man, whose birthday occurs Jan. 17 (next Wednesday), was the first do-it-yourself American. Some of his accomplishments are known to all, and some might come as a surprise.

Most know that old Ben found out about electricity and lightning being tied together. (It might not be always insulting to tell someone to "go fly a kite.") You are probably aware that he founded the nation's first circulating library now called the Bookmobile; and that he devised a new kind of harmonica, the lightning rod, bifocal glasses, the Franklin stove and the platform rocker.

He was self-taught from the age of 10 and became a vegetarian, the story goes, so he could spend his meat money on books. He taught himself logic, navigation, algebra, and geometry. Later, he taught himself to read German, French, Spanish, Italian and Latin.

Thought most are aware that he was the author of "Poor Richard's Almanack," did you know that at one time his book was out of print only by the Bible? He did what is generally regarded as the first to make the American postal system pay its own way.

Franklin introduced such things to this country as silk worms, broom corn, and the use of lime to fertilize soil.

He was interested in the weather and pioneered in studying the Gulf Stream, scientific weather prediction, and planned an expedition to the Arctic (it was there but we weren't here, so he never planned a trip to Arkansas.)

In fact and fiction we have heard about Franklin's diplomatic work in France, but as early as 1754 he tried to get London to organize the American colonies into a single unit under the crown, hoping that in time this country would be the seat of the British Empire. When he did not succeed, he became a revolutionary at the age of 70 and offered his fortune to Congress.

Now, he would be in retirement at that age, but we are fortunate this was not so then. He is the only man who signed all of these documents: the Declaration of Independence, the Treaty of Alliance with France, the peace treaty with Britain and the U.S. Constitution. One of his last acts was to found a society for the abolition of slavery.

He died of goutstones and gout at the age of 84, and the entire civilized world mourned the loss of this man who was businessman, writer, diplomat, scientist, inventor and humanitarian. Despite his many accomplishments (or, perhaps because of them), he was a modest man. In his will he humbly described himself as "I, Benjamin Franklin, printer . . ."

Faubus Reduces Two Sentences

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Prison sentences of two convicts were reduced Thursday by Gov. Orval E. Faubus on the recommendation of the state Pardon and Parole Board.

An 18-year sentence of Elmer Murphy, 31, was reduced to seven years. Murphy was sentenced Jan. 6, 1953 in Jefferson County for robbery, burglary and grand larceny.

The five-year sentence of Armon McDaniel, 42, of Mono, for voluntary manslaughter, was reduced to three years. McDaniel was convicted Dec. 5, 1960, in Lee Circuit Court.

Nothing But Plain Water

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"Could it be a bomb," wondered anxious store officials after a gallon jug of murky liquid with a clock and batteries attached was found in a downtown department store.

The store was cleared under guise of a civil defense drill Thursday.

Bomb specialists removed the apparatus from a restroom in the Sears Roebuck store. They placed the contraption in a padded container and dropped most of the liquid into the ocean. Crime laboratory technicians tested what was left and determined it was water.

3 Year Naval Enlistments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has temporarily cut its minimum enlistment period for recruits from four to three years.

Also, the Navy is allowing men who have been released for more than three months to re-enlist for either two or three years. Such re-enlistments in the past had to be for four or six years.

The experimental program, in effect until June 30, was announced by the service as a means of meeting "the increased readiness posture of the Navy and the nation."

Thinks JFK Tiptoes on World Affairs

By JIM MONROE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—President Kennedy is tiptoeing too much in world affairs and teasing the people too much at home, a Republican congressman said today as the Republican National Committee meeting opened.

The President's State of the Union message was a major target of Rep. Robert Wilson of California, who continued an attack started Thursday night by GOP National Chairman William E. Miller.

Republican leaders made it apparent they hope to use Kennedy's program as a springboard in this year's campaigns, and they practiced bouncing on it at the strategy session here.

They also launched a drive for more big city votes and predicted victories this year in congressional and state races.

Wilson, briefing newsmen on a luncheon address, said it is tragic Kennedy has been swayed by Americans for Democratic Action to take "a soft attitude" toward unfriendly nations.

He said Kennedy erred when he called off air cover for Cuba last April and backed off from a strong stand in Laos.

"The American public is fed up with our being shoved around," said Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. He added that the most enthusiastic applause at the President's State of the Union speech Thursday was when he said America would fight if necessary to hold Berlin.

Republicans must convince the American people this year that Kennedy's domestic program is filled with pitfalls, is costly and would not be beneficial, the Californian added.

He referred to the President's version of medical care to the aged, federal aid to education, power to spend public money and other proposals.

Wilson said this may be a political maneuver to boost chances of electing Democratic congressmen this year.

"I got the idea he's trying to put out a bag of goodies and when it fails he can tell the people he must have a Congress to get it over," Wilson said.

Wilson and Miller agreed Republicans must gain this year or their chances in the 1964 presidential elections will be slim.

Overtalkative Patients

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"A good long look at their tongues" is one technique advised by a Pennsylvania medical educator for physicians with over talkative patients.

The method was outlined Thursday for students at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine by Dr. Francis C. Wood, chairman of the department of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

An alternative, Dr. Wood said, would be to "put a thermometer in the mouth and leave it there."

In really extreme cases, he said, the thing to do is to send the patient back to the waiting room, with pencil and paper to list his symptoms.

Giant Railways Go Ahead With Merger Plan

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The high-bail sign went up today for merging the giant Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads into a 20,300-mile, $5.4-billion assets Goliath.

Carrying an "economic necessity" label, the plan dramatized creeping financial ills that threaten major rail, air, highway and water segments of the country's transportation system, a $100-billion yearly industry.

It promised to stir sharp debate in Congress, local governments, federal regulatory agency, and among shippers, as well as within the industry itself.

Within hours of the plan's approval Friday at separate meetings of the Pennsy and Central boards, it was assailed by 20 railway labor unions as "catastrophic . . . in its potential effects."

The railway brotherhoods fear especially elimination of jobs, one of the means by which the merging companies would hope to pare expenses and shore up faltering earnings.

Between them, the Pennsy and Central have about 120,000 employees.

Latest published figures, covering the first 11 months of 1961, showed the Central nearly $16 million and the Pennsy $2.7 million in the red, although the Pennsy may have finished the year in the black.

Aside from the brotherhoods, opposition to the proposed union was possible from the Justice department, concerned with monopoly questions; from shippers; and perhaps from competing railroads.

John E. Kusik, Chesapeake & Ohio senior vice president, speaking in the absence of President Walter J. Tuohy, said the merger announcement was an "interesting development" and one that "could mean that our own application for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will be expedited."

$800,000 Left by Giesler

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Attorney Jerry Giesler has left an $800,000 estate, most of which is covered by two trust funds to be controlled by his widow, Ruth Giesler.

Giesler's will was filed for probate Thursday.

Governor Favorable to Industry Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he would support an industrial development constitutional amendment such as the one being promoted by Woodruff County Rep. Jack Oakes.

Oakes proposes an amendment to permit creation of industrial development districts, similar to improvement districts, with authority to levy a tax of up to five mills.

Oakes said his proposal would fill a gap left by Amendment 49, the state's pioneer industrial financing measure. Amendment 49 permits a five mill industrial tax, but limits levying authority to a city or county.

Oakes said such authority is needed by some governmental units larger than a city, but smaller than a county.

Faubus agreed. "It's hard in some counties to get residents of one area to vote for a project in another area," Faubus said.

Except for refinements such as suggested by Oakes, Faubus said, he feels Arkansas' industrial financing laws are adequate.

$251 Million Taxes Paid by Arkansans

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas taxpayers set a state record of $251,561,445 in income tax paid in 1966, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The 1966 figure tops the 1960 mark by $12 million, said Fred W. Johnson, district IRS director. It represents 141 in taxes for each of the state's 1,786,272 residents.

The increase was due primarily to an $11 million withholding tax boost. It includes both income taxes withheld from paychecks and social security taxes which are not figured separately.

Income taxes paid with returns dropped from $77,664,350 in 1960 to $73,267,861 last year. Corporation taxes rose from $35,436,127 in 1960 to $43,256,202 in 1966. Excise taxes jumped to $11,163,163 last year from the 1960 total of $6,542,786.

Says U. S. Might Leave the UN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Retired Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker says he does not think it is inevitable that the United States will remain in the United Nations.

Walker, who quit the Army last November after a controversy over his troop indoctrination policies, spoke at a rally in the Sports Arena, sponsored by a Freedom Club of the First Congregational church.

The 52-year-old Texan said of another retired general, Omar N. Bradley: "Gen. Bradley holds to a doctrine of 'inevitability.' He feared a mistake over Berlin between the United States and the Soviet Union. He said the recognition of East Germany is inevitable. I disagree with him on every opinion. I do not agree that it is even inevitable that we remain in the United Nations."

The question of applying for admission to the United Nations became the leading issue of the 1935 Arkansas elections.

Kennedy Picture of Man in Hurry

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's State of the Union Message is the picture of a man in a hurry in more ways than one. But some of the details are missing.

It was an ambitious message: Full of things to do. Kennedy will be kept busy if he tries to make good on all of them.

But the message looked hastily written, even patched together. He was still making changes—many changes—at the last minute by adding to the prepared text as he went along in his reading to Congress.

This message didn't compare—in careful phrasing—with the first State of the Union Message he delivered last Jan. 30 or in his historic—with his highly polished in augural address 10 days before that.

He was probably more effective for being less literary. Some of those 1961 speeches had a transparent self-consciousness this one lacked. This had an air. He didn't always get down to cases.

For instance, he called on Congress to wipe out literacy tests and poll taxes as bars to voting. He neglected to say how: By constitutional amendment or congressional vote.

Last year, despite his campaign promises of 1960, he didn't back any civil rights legislation other than asking for an extension of the Civil Rights Commission. But it remains to be seen whether what he said Thursday is really a switch.

The test is whether now, after finally saying these steps should be taken, he'll fight for them or just let his statement do for the year.

The same goes for the backing he gave Thursday to the proposal he made last year on federal aid to education: Money to help build public schools and pay teachers' salaries.

It got lost in controversy and this year, some thought, he would drop the fight for that and concentrate on trying to get federal help for higher education.

If he ignored the public school program, he'd be accused of retreating. Thursday he said he was still for it. The test of how much he's for it is how much he fights for it.

Throughout his talk Kennedy moved back and forth between saying simply some things are needed and saying that on other he will offer programs. Not all were new. Some he offered last year but they got nowhere.

If both kinds of statements are lumped together—and if he intends to follow through on all of them instead of just mentioning some and letting it go at that—then it can be said he laid out 40 proposals before Congress.

He also took time to review what he considered accomplishments of his administration in 1966. These covered any fields and directions. Some he wrapped up in one package, some he listed separately.

If listed singly, then he cited at least 70 areas of achievement. If in packages, then at least 40. His biggest roll call of accomplishments was in defense, ranging from modernizing weapons to building up the fleet.

Even before Congress gets down to work, which won't be before next week, it can be safely said on past experience he does not stand a chance of getting all he said is needed.

He'll probably consider himself lucky if, in this congressional election year, he gets 60 to 70 percent. And he still hasn't mentioned some of the hottest proposals he'll ask Congress to approve this year.

They come later when he gets down to ABC on how much his individual programs—for instance foreign aid and money for defense—are going to cost.

Through it all ran a sense of action, of up and doing. He knows the American eyes watching him have shortened their focus. They were content with a long look in his first year in office when he was learning his job.

From now on, with the presidential apprenticeship over, he will be examined much more critically. This is true of every president and Kennedy, who knows his history, knows that.

DiSalle Will Be a Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle announced today he has changed his mind about quitting and will be a candidate for a second term.

The announcement assured a lively primary campaign fight for the Democratic nomination.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy announced last Nov. 22 that he would seek the nomination. That was slightly more than a month after DiSalle said on Oct. 20 that he had decided to bow out. McElroy has said he is in the race to stay.

Husband Says Wife Lives in 13th Century

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Tell me if my husband is an example of this modern thinking man. He calls my thinking 13th Century just because I can't see the propriety of him taking a pretty 17-year-old girl bowling. He is 29.

Certainly he deserves to have fun for he puts in long hours at his own business seven days a week. But fair is fair. A few days ago he was tending the garden for winter. He suggested I take in a show. I replied that I'd rather go later with him. He said he would probably be too tired when he finished with the yard so go without him. He arranged for a baby sitter and I went out for the first time in over a month.

When I returned he was nowhere about. Worrying I asked our neighbor if they had seen him. "Yes," they said. "He and our daughter went bowling." Well, you could have bowled me over!

I let him know that I was good and mad when he finally got home. He only laughed. I'm sure his interest was purely platonic, as far as the 17-year-old daughter of our neighbors was concerned, but I, not she, should have been his bowling companion.

The girl's parents saw nothing wrong in her stepping out with my husband and this maddened me too. Am I—Living in the Dark Ages?

Dear Living: Stop nagging. Else you'll surely make a mountain out of a molehill. Arrange for a baby sitter, one night a week. Join a bowling club and make it your business to outshine the 17-year-old neighbor in bowling, looks and wit. Drop the injured wife role. It will get you nowhere.

Tease your husband occasionally about robbing the cradle. Otherwise ignore the entire affair. If a date materializes with another member of the bowling club, blithely accept. Show your husband that you too, can take life lightly. The secret of luring him back lies in keying your mood to his.

Dear Helen: I like a girl whose father is principal of the school we both attend. Her parents are strict. The only time I can talk to her is at school or the store where she works after classes and on Sundays. She wants me to see her home Sundays but I'm scared because her folks won't let her date any boy. She's 16 and I am 17. We like each other very much, so much that I'm on the verge of dating her regardless of what her parents say. What would you do? —E.C.J.

Dear E.C.: Do the straightforward thing: tell the parents that you like their daughter and ask if you may date her. Should they refuse, invite them to come along. Your father and mother might cooperate by inviting all three to a family meal. The surer her parents are of your background the easier it will be to win them over.

Play up to the father. As principal of a high school he should be a fair judge of teenage character. If you measure up to his standards, there's nothing to worry about, except your grades at school. These could be a real factor.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine, care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Teenage Code."

Argentina Chief to Hold Policy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Unshaken by two resignations from his Cabinet, President Arturo Frondizi declared today the Argentine government will not vary its policy of monetary stabilization, austerity and economic development.

The President worked until midnight persuading other Cabinet ministers and key officials to stay on their jobs after Robert T. Alemann resigned as economics minister, after less than 10 months in office; and Arturo Acevedo quit as minister of public works. Constancio Plaghos also quit as director of state railways.

Alemann said he quit because he was no longer convinced of the necessity of the austerity policy which Frondizi adopted in December 1953.

Acevedo resigned because a costly 40-day railroad strike was settled in his absence on terms he had opposed.

Plans call for six more counties, Miller, Independence, Jefferson, Newton, Pope and Union, to receive buildings later this year, Welch said.

Highway officials said the sheet metal structures house materials and equipment as well as provide office space for field engineers.

Where such buildings have gone up, officials said, there has been a noticeable decline in thefts of fuel and materials.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Highway Department reported Thursday area headquarters buildings have been completed in 64 counties while two others are under construction and five more are programmed.

Highway Engineer Y. W. Welch said each of the buildings has been built at an average cost of $23,950.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An apartment low bid of $794,779 for control structures for the Arbuckle Island cut-off channel on the Arkansas River downstream from Fort Smith was submitted to Army Engineers by Markham and Brown Construction Co. of Dallas Thursday. Estimated cost was $790,978.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—L. D. Poynter, president of the Jefferson County Citizens Council, has announced that Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College, Searcy, will speak at a public meeting here Jan. 30 on "The Issues of Today." Benson is widely known for his anti-Communist speeches.

Space Group Decides on Super Saturn

BY JOE MCKNIGHT

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The space agency, leapfrogging over three concepts of the Saturn rocket, has decided on a super Saturn with far more power than any rocket the free world has ever known.

The first stage, or lift-off booster, will have five engines developing a total thrust of 1.7 million pounds of thrust. That compares with the 1.5 million pounds of thrust built into the Saturn first stage which was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla., last November.

And the huge rocket will be capable of carrying a payload of about 110 tons, twice the normal maximum load of an ordinary railroad box car.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Marshall Space Flight Center here announced Thursday that a decision had been made on the five-engine cluster for the first and second stages of the advanced Saturn. The third stage will carry a single engine.

Two stages will be used for earth-orbit missions. Earth orbital trips for three men are to be accomplished with the present Saturn, the C1.

The advanced Saturn, expected to be ready for launching in 1965, will be used first to send a three-man craft into orbit around the moon and back to earth. Later work for it will include a manned landing on the moon and the return trip to earth.

In deciding on this type of advanced Saturn, NASA bypassed three concepts—the C2, C3 and C4. Each was more powerful in concept than the preceding number but none would have been as powerful as the one decided on, which probably will become known as the C5.

The first stage of the new Saturn will be powered by five F-1 engines using kerosene and liquid oxygen as propellants.

The second stage, generating a million pounds of thrust, will have five J-2 engines burning liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen. The second stage will be able to function on any four of the five engines if necessary. The engines will be rigged so that fuel from any nonfunctioning engine will be fed to the other four.

While this will reduce the total thrust it will counter-balance by giving thrust for a longer time. The third stage will use a single J-2 engine developing 200,000 pounds of thrust. It also will burn liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen.

Print Contract Suit Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The fate of the far-reaching Parkin Printing Co. suit is in the hands of the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Parkin appealed Thursday a ruling in which Pulaski Chancellor Murray O. Reed voided about $800,000 worth of its printing contracts with the state because its president, Harry W. Parkin, is a member of the state Highway Commission.

The plaintiff in the suit, Arkansas Printing and Lithography Co. of Little Rock, normally would have 70 days to answer.

Robert Light, attorney for Parkin, filed a transcript of the chancellor court trial with the Supreme Court clerk and said he hopes to file his brief within 10 days. He asked the court to advance the date for filing of the opposition brief in the public interest.

The ruling, if upheld, would affect many members of boards and commissions who hold contracts with the state.

Light said the Supreme Court would hear all testimony presented in the lower court. Light said grounds for the appeal would be listed in his brief later.

Rice Named Judge at Bentonville

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus today announced the appointment of Jeff R. Rice as Bentonville municipal judge.

Rice succeeds the late J. T. McGill.

Faubus also said he had appointed Mrs. Leota Seal of Jonesboro to the Board of Nursing Examiners for a term which expires May 1, 1963.

The governor said he has offered to reappoint Mrs. J. C. Park of Prairie Grove to the Prairie Grove Battlefield Commission. He added that W. J. Lemke and Mrs. Lee Seams, both of Fayetteville had said they did not want to be reappointed and he was offering their positions to D. E. Rieff and Alvin Bell, both of Prairie Grove.

Bid on Channel

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An apartment low bid of $794,779 for control structures for the Arbuckle Island cut-off channel on the Arkansas River downstream from Fort Smith was submitted to Army Engineers by Markham and Brown Construction Co. of Dallas Thursday. Estimated cost was $790,978.

Released on Bond

FRED SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Fred Peppard of Hot Springs was released on $2,000 bond Thursday after being indicted in connection with the alleged theft of $12,500 in U.S. savings bonds in Duncan, Miss. He is charged with transporting the bonds in interstate commerce.

Bakery Donates Bread for Birds

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The president of a Little Rock bakery thought the snow and sub-zero weather definitely was not for the birds.

So Charles T. Meyer Jr., phoned the president of the local Audubon Society and offered him the services of a truck and 600 pounds of bread.

Cleveland Cabler, the society's president, and several other members distributed 450 loaves of bread over the city Thursday.

"It was a critical day," Cabler said. "With snow on the ground since Monday, the birds were getting desperate for food."

Meyers offered 'em more bread today.

Mental Test for Kidnapers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Chyrel Lee Jolls, 15-year-old schoolgirl charged in the kidnap-slaying of 3-year-old Andrew Ashley last June, today was ordered committed to a state mental institution.

Erie County Judge Jacob A. Latorna confirmed the opinion of two court-appointed psychiatrists who had testified that Chyrel was mentally ill and incapable of helping defend herself against charges of first degree murder and kidnaping.

The murder of the Ashley boy, whose bound body was found in a park lake on the city's north side, stunned the city. Chyrel was one of scores of persons picked up by police for questioning in a week-long hunt for the boy's killer.

Irish Actress Knives Producer

LONDON (AP)—Constance Smith, movie actress and former Miss Ireland beauty contest winner, was sentenced today to three months in prison on a charge of knifing her paramour, movie producer Paul Rotha, 54.

Miss Smith, 32, pleaded guilty to a charge of maliciously wounding Rotha Dec. 15 at the flat they had shared for two years.

Ike to Talk in L. A. on Feb. 1

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will speak in Los Angeles Feb. 1 during a 30 city circuit circuit telecast.

The program, under auspices of the Republican National Committee, is designed as a 1962 campaign kickoff. Eisenhower will be honored at a private dinner after the program. He is now vacationing in Palm Springs, Calif.

Rita Asked to Leave Restaurant

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A restaurant owner says he had to ask actress Rita Hayworth and actor Gary Merrill to leave his establishment Saturday night because they were "actually fighting."

Proprietor Jean Leon of Au Petit Jean said the stars were yelling at each other and "the whole restaurant was looking at them."

WOOD BOATS STILL HIGH IN POPULARITY

By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SUNCOOK, N. H. (NEA)—Will wood boats always be popular? Are hulls of metal and plastic going to replace them?

Talk to old-time sailors and they tell the way wooden boats seem to live and work with the waves. They'll point out how oak and mahogany, spruce and teak have a richness of appearance and warmth of feel that man-made materials never seem to capture.

Ask a New England builder of wooden boats and you'll get a Yankee answer.

"People keep buying them," Jed Elwell reckons. "A boat, built properly of wood can give you a lot of honest value. We find we can work well with it to turn out our kind of boat."

Around 400 customers a year want the large wood cruisers Jed wants to build. Though the recession cut sharply into sales of smaller craft from other builders, Elwell's Pembroke Company keeps three production lines busy turning out a 23-foot sports fisherman, a 28-foot family cruiser and for next year a 33-foot cruiser model that will sleep six.

They are lapstrake, built with the overlapping planking house. The wood is Philippine mahogany. Each plank is three-quarters of an inch thick.

The oak stem in the bow of each has the slight S curve of old clipper ships, but is bolted, screwed, and then bonded into the hull with the new adhesives that are also used in missiles. Caulking of seams is eliminated by new rubber sealers that work without ever drying or cracking.

Elwell grew up in New Hampshire's White Mountains, inland from the ocean, but he built his first boat, a canoe, when he was 10. On the Merrimack River and later on Lake Winnepesaukee he tried out his theories and those he learned studying naval architecture. The first production line was in his basement. He built boats. His wife painted them.

Elwell settled on the sea-skiff design of seakindly lapstrake hulls which received their roughest testing during prohibition days when little boats of a New England claspboard ran out beyond the 12-mile limit, picked up liquor from big rum runners, and raced it to New Jersey beaches.

In 1955 orders started stacking up and Jed joined another young Yankee, Dave Mosley, to form the Pembroke Boat Co.

Since then they have been too busy with wood to feel competition from fiberglass or metal, but new materials are not ignored. Old New Hampshire craftsmen at Pembroke do not work with modern plastics. Cabin tops are fiberglass covered. Decks are available in glass or teak.

Ruggedly built, the boats include refinements for today that would have shocked the iron men in ships of wood a century ago. Varied trim, upholstered bunks, stainless steel galleys and styled interiors are planned for comfort.

The Pembroke partners travel across the country several times a year, talking to owners and dealers and studying pleasure boating trends.

Will they ever change from wood to fiberglass, for instance? "Can't say," Jed Elwell admits, "but as long as we do our best in wood and people want it, we'll stick with it."

Field and Stream

Many a sportsman, thinking himself alone in the more rugged and remote mountain ranges of the northern Rockies, has been scared out of his wits when curiously human sounding whistles came at him.

Just when he is about to concede the presence of ghosts, the sportsman sights a tiny animal, which, a few seconds earlier, appeared to be a rock. The gray ball of fur disappears into a tiny opening—and the sportsman has had his first encounter with the pika, nature's ventriloquist.

The shrill whistles come from a single animal making a series of 25 or 30 notes in diminishing tones.

The pika, also known as the little chief hare and often called "coney," is closely related to the rabbit, but has small ears, rudimentary tail and relatively short hind legs.

Even in winter, the pika lives in terrain deserted by even the most hardy animals. Elk, big-horn sheep and coyote head for areas where food is more abundant. Bears, marmots and ground squirrels take a long nap to combat freezing weather. But the pika goes about his business beneath the snow, living on berries, grasses, leaves and other food that has dried during the summer.

Found in most mountain ranges in Wyoming, the pika is particularly thickly populated in Grand Teton National Park and the Snowy Range.

All Want to Know What Vince Needs

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A fellow made the rounds of the National Football League asking each club "What do you need most?" Wellington Mara, vice-president of the New York Giants, answered. Then he added: "I can't wait to see what Vince Lombardi needs."

Lombardi's Green Bay Packers, of course, clobbered the Giants, 37-0 in the league championship game.

The survey showed that even Lombardi was not satisfied. He wanted help, too.

Trade talk, begun at the league annual meetings, probably will solve some of the problems for the 14 clubs. Others hope to fill the gap with the new crop of college draftees.

Here is what they want, club by club:

Western Division
Green Bay—A defensive lineman and a defensive back. Lombardi thinks his draftees will fill the bill.

Detroit—A running back, offensive lineman and possibly a quarterback.

Baltimore—A big halfback to help Johnny Unitas and defensive backs.

Chicago—Help in the secondary both at halfback and safety positions.

Los Angeles—A big rushing lineman like the Packers' Henry Jordan and offensive linemen.

San Francisco—A linebacker, offensive backs and ends set at quarterback.

Minnesota — Defensive players, up front and in the secondary after giving up more points than any other club in the league.

Eastern Division
New York—Defensive lineman to lighten the load for the "big four" that played all the way in most of the 14 games. Also help for offensive line.

Philadelphia — Offensive lineman to hold off the rush on Sonny Jurgensen and a linebacker to replace Chuck Bednarik if he retires. Also could use an offensive end.

Cleveland—Offensive guard and tackle, receivers, a linebacker and a defensive back. Also a defensive end to replace Jim Houston who went into the Army.

Pittsburgh—An outside running threat and a quarterback to spell, or perhaps replace, Bobby Layne.

Dallas—Big men all along the line needed on both offense and defense with key carryover personnel of Bob Lilly, Jerry Gumbs, Don Bishop, Don Meredith and Don Perkins.

St. Louis — Offensive linemen and a little more luck after losing 11 men due to injuries during the 1961 season.

Washington — Offensive lineman and a fullback with the hope that Ron Hatcher of Michigan State can do the job.

She smiled tentatively at me. I thought she looked very smart—smooth blonde head, slim brown legs, gabardine coat belted at her flat waist—but there was a nervous edge to her, a sense of strain or tension as she spoke.

"You must have just got back," she said. "Was Pamplona amusing as ever?"

"Yes, absolutely great."

"I know how you must feel," she said abruptly. "You're his friend. I can't blame you. But I don't want him locked up. I hope you'll believe me."

"Why not let him out then?"

"Because he doesn't want to get out! He's the most maddening person. He won't listen to Don Julio—he won't even see me."

I smiled at her. "And he doesn't want the chicken you brought, I'm sure."

She looked a trifle embarrassed; a touch of color came into her pale cheek. "I don't know why I brought it in the first place. Of course he won't accept it from me. He'd rather starve." She put the tips of her fingers to her temples and began to pace restlessly, the bright overhead light beam on her smooth blonde hair.

I glanced at Don Julio. "Would it be all right if I talked to him?"

"Very well. But I'm afraid you won't have any luck. He's a very stubborn man."

"I'll try anyway."

Dennis had been placed in a basement cell. I went down a flight of stairs and walked along a damp corridor.

A dim bulb hung from the ceiling and the light fell in slanted patterns into Dennis's cell. He was sitting on a narrow iron cot looking at a newspaper.

"Well, Heil Hitler," I said.

He leaped to his feet smiling. "John, it's good to see you. I say, this is grand."

harmful to citrus groves.

Citrus trees were reported splitting from the cold in southern Texas where a 1961 freeze destroyed an estimated 12-million trees. Readings early today included 29 at Corpus Christi, 25 at Ellis and 26 at Houston.

Low readings in Florida included 24 at Gainesville, 33 in Tampa and 25 at Jacksonville, which was hit by freezing rain Friday. He ice froze birds to the trees in the usually sunny city.

Snow and sleet made driving hazardous in the coastal area from Virginia to northern Florida, coating trees and wires over a wide area. Snowfall ranged from five inches in Wilson, N.C. to a trace in Tallahassee, Fla. To the north another storm dumped up to 3 inches of snow at Cape Cod and Nantucket, Mass.

Drifting snow blocked roads in a section of northwestern Lower Michigan where the snow depth was two feet in places. Scattered light snow was reported during the night throughout the Midwest, where temperatures were mostly in the 20s. Minneapolis had freezing rain.

Snow fell in most of the western half of the nation, reaching depths of 2 inches or more in parts of Oregon, Nevada, Idaho and Montana. Rain showers dampened the Pacific Coast area, which was the only major area outside southern Florida to escape freezing temperatures.

Temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in most of California where some frost damage was reported to tomatoes, peppers and squash in the Coachella and Imperial Valleys.

Skies were clearing over the Southeast, promising sunshine to melt snow that covers most of the area. Snow and ice had begun turning into slush in northern Alabama but freezing temperatures during the night stopped the melting. About six inches of snow remained in the Tennessee Valley area.

can't—do one single thing about it. Don't you understand that?"

"You're the one who can't understand," he said firmly. "I won't compromise. It's a matter of principle. I will not crawl or truckle."

"They don't want you to," said. "Anyway, I doubt very much if you know how to truckle. It's a lost art—like counting angels on the heads of pins."

He regarded me with mild reproach. "I don't think humor's in the best of taste just now, old man."

"You intend to stand like a rock, then?"

"I'll do my best."

"Why wouldn't you take the Marquesa's chicken?"

He smiled at me, pityingly. "I'm not likely to fall into their traps. It's a device to soften me, nothing more. No, John, I've taken a stand. I won't retreat."

He turned away from the cell door and folded his arms. The dim light flickered along his firm jaw and touched the look of eagles in his eyes.

For some reason he made me feel sad. I don't know why, exactly. Perhaps it was because he reflected the portrait of Englishman I had drawn as a child from roanette plays and novels. Killcrankie and Agincourt and the Charge of the Light Brigade. All the brave and foolish soldiers and adventurers who had fought over the centuries, climbing mountains and deserting in the interests of trade and the flag. Dressing for dinner in the tropics, building cricket pitches and tennis courts for amusement of black and brown and yellow natives around the world, dying of malaria and dysentery and grapeshot, and leaving fair young women with the mists of Devon in their hair to grieve their passing. Sent down from Oxford! I say Shady Weather and Jeaves and that keen fellow in the deerstalker cap rattling about London after Moriarty.

My Psalm

The clinched fist and the hesitating step show the danger which doubtless has caused this heart to throb. But the face is lighted by the silver lining and hope and trust will drive out the fear. Every man walks, some day, through the valley of the shadow, along a dangerous path. Suffering and opposition and uncertainty are our common lot. But God is our shepherd and no matter how unequal we feel, He will carry us through. His rod and staff must be our comfort... for "My Psalm" says so. And if He walks with us through the valley, every darkness will give way to light. His church is on the corner to help us. The Book on its pulpit will give us direction. The faithful company, the anointed which My Psalm talks about, will be as His rod that drives away our foes. Then, surely, we shall not walk alone for goodness and mercy shall follow us and we shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever. A-men.
